

What is this Monitor?

This monitor is part of the AirAware Project, tracking the air quality right here at your YMCA.

It displays the Air Quality Index (AQI) for both indoor and outdoor air at this location. The AQI tells you how clean or polluted the air is and how it might affect your health.

How to Use this Monitor

- Indoor AQI: Shows the air quality inside this YMCA.
- Outdoor AQI: Shows the air quality outside this YMCA.

Use the chart to the right to see what the AQI numbers mean for your health.

Dear Community,

Thank you for reaching out to us during this challenging time. We deeply empathize with the stress and uncertainty you're facing in the aftermath of the wildfires. Your safety and well-being are incredibly important to us, and we're honored that you've turned to us for guidance.

While we strive to provide the most accurate and reliable information, it's important to note that air quality and wildfire impacts are highly complex. Factors like wind patterns, temperatures, and terrain make it impossible for us to give definitive answers about safe distances, pollutant emissions and timelines, or personal decisions. We wish that we could provide you definitive advice about the safety of returning to fire impacted areas, but that's just not possible.

In addition, as a small nonprofit public interest organization, we do not have the ability to provide case-specific or individual advice, and we encourage you to consult health professionals, local authorities, and experts for personalized guidance.

To help, we've created a comprehensive Wildfire Safety Resource Page, (tinyurl.com/thefiresresources) where you'll find expert-recommended tools and tips to navigate these difficult times.

We are actively working to provide more opportunities for learning and connection. While our resources are limited, we are exploring the possibility of hosting additional webinars with experts to address community concerns from various perspectives.

Thank you for your patience, understanding, and resilience. We're here to support you in every way we can and remain committed to advocating for cleaner air and healthier communities.

With hope and solidarity,
The Coalition for Clean Air Team
